

I want to state my opposition to the consideration of voiding the state of Wisconsin's no call list legislation. We have finally been able to have some peace at home. The federal list just isn't anywhere close to strong enough to have a meaningful effect. Wisconsin's list should be blueprint for reworking the federal list into something that might work.